“A budget is telling your money where to go instead of wondering where it went.”

Dave Ramsey

They say that money talks, but mine just waves goodbye.

My bank has a new service where they text me my balance. I just don't think they should add LOL to the end.

Tree of Love

KRD joined Family Resource Center of McCook to provide Christmas gifts for 22 needy families from our area!

Many thanks to our members that “adopted” a family from the Tree of Love this season. It was very heart-warming to see the incredible generosity from everyone as they brought in the gifts they carefully picked out to give to complete strangers.

Without the help of KRD’s generous members and community that we live in, the children in these families would have had a very sad Christmas.

“It isn’t how much we GIVE but how much LOVE we put into giving.”

5 Things you Should Never Keep in Your Wallet

More than 40% of identity fraud cases stem from a stolen or lost wallet or purse. If you are carrying these five things in your wallet, you are likely putting your identity and finances at risk.

1. Social Security Card

Your Social Security number is the most vital piece of information for identity thieves, and the damage resulting from identity theft can impact your finances for years to come. If someone gets your number, they can use it to apply for credit in your name.

2. Birth Certificate or Passport

These items contain some vital, personally identifiable information, and losing these will make it all too easy for thieves to steal your identity.

3. Extra Credit Cards

It is a dangerous habit carrying unnecessary credit cards in your wallets. The more cards you carry, the more opportunities you are giving a thief to steal your money or information. Also, the more work you are putting on yourself to reestablish accounts after a theft. Furthermore, make sure you have a record of your credit card account numbers and contact information for each card issuer stored at home, in case a card is stolen.

4. PINs and Passwords

Debit card PINs and passwords for accounts should always be left at home in a secure place.

5. Checks

Avoid carrying your entire checkbook around with you. Checking account fraud can be especially difficult to resolve, and you’ll likely need to close your account to prevent further damage.

Card Skimming

Card skimming is when a fraudster illegally copies your debit or credit card data from the magnetic strip on your debit or credit card when you use your card. A hidden camera is also setup to capture your P.I.N. as you enter it.

The details copied from your card are then copied onto a blank debit or credit card creating an exact duplicate. That cloned card can then be used by the fraudster to make fraudulent transactions using the P.I.N. captured with the hidden camera.

A card skimmer scheme has two components:

The Skimmer: A small device that's generally inserted over the card slot. When you insert your debit or credit card, the skimmer records the data on the magnetic strip of your card. The card passes through the skimmer and enters the legitimate card reader. Your transaction, in most cases, will process as normal but your card data has been copied. Card skimmers are specifically made to duplicate or look similar to the card reader on to which it will be affixed to.

The Camera or Keypad Overlay: A small camera is placed somewhere that it can record both the keypad and your fingers as you enter your P.I.N.. In cases where a small camera is not used, there will be a keyboard overlay fitted on top of the legitimate keypad. The overlay records your P.I.N. as you enter it.

The card skimmer and camera are affixed to an ATM, fuel pump, or other card readers by the fraudster. Both are left on the card reader until the fraudster has enough card details to make cloned cards. The skimmer and camera will then removed and card details are transferred to a computer. At that point, the card details are copied to blank debit or credit cards and used to deplete card holders' accounts.

What can you do?

If the fraudsters do not have your P.I.N. they cannot use your cloned card for P.I.N. based transactions. Shield Your P.I.N.

- Shield Your P.I.N.: Always use your hand to shield your P.I.N. as you enter it.
- Jiggle the Card Reader: If the card reader moves around when you try to jiggle it with your hand, something probably isn't right. A real card reader is a secure part of the machine and should not move when handled or jiggled.

- Look at the Card Reader: Does anything look a bit out-of-place? Is anything a different color from the rest of the machine? Does it look damaged, imperfect or contain glue or other adhesive substances?
- Examine the P.I.N. Pad: Does it appear to have an overlay over the real keyboard?
- Check for Cameras: Look for hidden cameras. Look for anything that might have a tiny hole or slot for a camera to be placed, especially if it is aimed at the keyboard.
- Sign the back of your cards: With transactions requiring your signature the merchant can verify the signature on the back of your with.
- If you suspect that a skimmer is affixed to a card reader, call the police and report it.
- Make sure your contact info is correct with your financial institutions. They will use it to contact you when they suspect fraud.
